"Some paper alludes to the newly inorporated East Central Railway as a Railroad built on thin paper." It may be so, but it has been suggested that perhaps the purchasers of the Clyde Line may be back of the new railroad scheme and that inasmuch as this road is said to run from Ormond to Daytona, thence to DeLand and Orlando, future | links may be added to make a through line from Tampa to Jacksonville.

It looks right well, even on thin paper, and though it might be rather difficult to figure in the profits to such a line it is certain that a competitive railroad through the section indicated would be

DOUGLAS' ACCOUNT OF HIMSELF

By Rev. John Home

Y name is Norval. On the Grampian hills My father feeds his flocks; a frugal swain, Whose constant care was to increase his store And keep his only son, myself, at home; For I had heard of battles, and I longed To follow to the fields some warlike lord: But heaven soon granted what my sire denied.

This moon, which rose last night, round as my shield, Had not yet filled her horns, when, by her light, A band of fierce barbarians, from the hills, Rushed, like a torrent dewn up in the vale, Sweeping our flocks and herds. The shepherds fled For safety and for succor. I alone, With bended bow and quiver full of arrows Hovered about the enemy, and marked The road he took, and hasted to my friends, Whom, with a troop of fifty chosen men, I met advancing. The pursuit I led Till we o'ertook the spoils incumbered foe. We fought-and conquered! Ere a sword was drawn An arrow from my bow had pierced their chief, Who wore that day the arms which now I wear. Iteturning home in triumph, I disclained The shepherd's slothful life, and, having heard That our good king had summoned his bold peers To lead their warriors to the Carron side, I left my father's house and took with me A chosen servant to conduct my steps-You trembling coward who forsook his master. Journeying with this intent, I passed these towers And, heaven directed, came this day to do The happy deed that gilds my bumble name,

THIS stirring appeal for aid to the cause of the Southern Confederacy cane, with many other voicings of southern hope and aspiration, from the pen of Henry Timrod, whose untimely death in 1867, at the age of thirty-eight, is still lamented by the critics who see in his work the unfulfilled promise of high poetical achievement. "If he is to be called a poet of promise rather than performance." says one authority, "it is only in view of the poor opportunity he had and in the conviction that had fortune been more kindly he would have richly repaid her in what he gave the world." O! woodsmen of the mountain side! Ho! dwellers in the vales!

Ho! ye, that by the chafing tide
Have roughened in the gales! Leave barn and byre, leave kin and cot, Lay by the bloodless spade; Let desk, and case, and counters rot, And burn your books of trade!

The foeman roves your fairest lands And till he flies or fears, Your fields must grow but armed Your sheaves be sheaves of spears!

Give up to mildew and to rust
The useless tools of gain—
And feed your country's sacred dust
With floods of crimson rain!

With all a patriot's scorn,

Come with the weapons at your call—With musket, pike or knife—He wields the deadliest blade of all Who lightest holds his life.
The arm that drives its unbought

Does any falter? Let him turn To some brave maiden's eyes, And catch the holy fires that burn In those sublunar skies.

the could you like your women feel.

And in their splitt march.

A day might see your lines of steel Beneath the victor's arch! What hope, O God! would not grow

When thoughts like these give cheer The lily calmiy braves the storm— And shall the paim tree fear? Not rather let its branches court. The blast that sweeps the piain; And-from the lily's regal port.

Learn how to breust the rain. Ho' woodamen of the mountain side!
Ho! dwellers in the vale!
Ho! ye that by the rouring tide
Have roughened in the gale!

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halif x River at its fairest expanse and midway between its source at Bulow Bay and its outlet nt Mosquito Inlet. It is in latitude 29, seventy-four miles from St. Augustine and one mile from the Atbe without a rival for beauty among the villages of the South. Its site is upon what is known as high hammock land that was crowned by hined and is also become that city combined and is also become the river and well-graded avenues, and is the principal summer resort south of St. Augustine. It has more tourists during the summer than all other places south of that city combined and is also become nature with a most royal growth of majestic forest trees, and among these trees is the town of to-day, with its beautiful cottages and well-graded bathing is safe and excellent summer intersect the town are lordly live and . comfort as Daytona beach. them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overarch the street and walks, and among these are interspersed tall tropical palmettos. glossy-leaved magnolias, fragrant bays and coral-berried bolly, and many other varieties, while in many places he wild grape, the trumpet vine and he ampelopsis climb and cling among the branches forming shady bowers and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half-mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health-giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world Daytona has many miles of well-graded, marled and shelled roads and streets, rendering it the and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivalled course for long-distance cycling and driving or automobile racing. No town of equal size. North or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages that have been erected during the past years and are being built are render ing Daytona as famous for its fine omes as for its beautiful river, trees and avenues, and they are adding yearly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions to chose securing homes in the South. and ranking second only to health fulness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefis composed of cultivated and intelligen people, accustomed to the refinements of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelty works, an opera house, electric lights for street and house illumination, ; good telephone system, ice factory. Lily Water Works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of this town
